Steamboat Man In Town

R. D. Pineo, who has charge of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.'s freight business for this region, was a local visitor several days this week. He reported to The Sentinel that he was on his way back to Seattle after a trip through the towns of Southeastern Alaska in the interests of his company. According to him there is nothing new in the steamer situation as far as this locality is concerned. The Cottage is scheduled to sail from Seattle on or about the 20th of the present month, completely overhauled and refitted, and is expected to make good time. At that time the Senator will be taken off and put into winter quarters. From then on until the opening up of the spring business she will be operated on a twelve day schedule.

The electric plant will shut down at two o'clock Saturday morning for repairs. The expectations are that they will be completed by noon.

Preparing For Big Dance

If you happen to see anybody in deep thought, don't get the notion under your bonnet that they are figuring over affairs of state. Instead, it were a safe bet to say that they are thinking over a costume for the big Masquerade the Redmen will give New Years Eve. Just about everybody and their aunts are preparing to mask, and the expectations are that many fine costumes will appear.

Who's Got 'Em?

The editor went to the dance Saturday night, and in some unaccountable manner came home with somebody's else rubbers on his feet. Of course he picked out a better pair than his own, but the trouble is they are too small, and hurt his corns, so now he wants to trade back. If there's any other fellow in the same box, with rubbers that don't match his feet as a result of the dance, he had better come in, compare notes (and feet) and take his rubbers home with him.

Firemen's Smoker

A smoker was given last evening by Alert Fire Co. No. 1, and was well attended. An impromptu program was arranged consisting mainly of the following:

Music and songs by Messrs Leonard and Hood:

Song by Tom Dalgity.

Our Fire Department, its uses, etc., H. Gartley.

Short address on same subject by Leo McCormack.

Trials and Tribulations of a dressmaker, Dr. L. P. Dawes.

Whiskers or no whiskers, Chas. Olson.

Some of the mysteries of hamburger cheese and how to eat it, J. G. Grant.

Ole Johnson, in response to a call for remarks stated that it was a question with him as to which should claim precedence, Our Public Schools of the Fire Department. James Hurley said he was too old to serve as an active member, but that old age had no limit otherwise, and likened himself to the "mighty oak."

N. J. Svendsen told a short story entitled, "Verdict rendered at a deacon's trial."

C. F. Smith gave a few timely remarks on the necessity of keeping up a good fire department.

Dave Oliver responded to the question, "How to run a gas boat without swearing," by telling one of the most original stories of the evening.

Much credit should be given the boys for the success of the smoker and especially to Dave Oliver for preparing the lunch.

A Bunch Of Bad Luck

The Demmert Bros. at Shakan had a bunch of bad luck recently. They were out halibut fishing on the Kelly, and on the way home to Shakan, with five boxes of fish on board, had the misfortune to break the coupling on the shaft. By sailing and towing the boat along the shore by hand, they managed to reach home at last after a somewhat strenuous time. There they culled out two boxes of fish and shipped the other three boxes over to Wrangell on the Uncle Dan, thinking that they would be able to catch the Jefferson. That boat came down sooner than expected, and the result was, Charley Demmert sold the entire lot of fish on the wharf here for $5.00, as there was little hope of getting it down to Seattle in a salable condition. Charley was a passenger south on the Humboldt and expects to return about the first of the year.

Very Successful Affair

The bazaar of the local Catholic Church, held last Friday afternoon and evening, was a success in every particular. In the first place those in charge had spared no effort in fixing up the hall for the event and had taxed their ingenuity to the utmost in preparing for the entertainment of their guests. The main event perhaps was the fortune telling by Mme. Isham, (Mrs. Emery) and many and varied were the fates served out to those dabbling in futures. The Country Store did so successful a business that its entire stock was cleaned out early in the evening, and of course the refreshment, fancy work and other booths were each well patronized by the hosts of visitors, to such an extent that the total receipts of the affair were over $200. A well appreciated program was rendered consisting of the following numbers:

Piano Duet, Dolly Case and Mary Loftus.

Quartette, Alice Kincaid, Annie

Don't Forget Your Taxes

Town Taxes are due and payable at this time. If you neglect to pay them before the first of the year, there will be a penalty attached, so you had better get busy. The books are at L. C. Pate-naude's, and payment of taxes should be made to him.

The past week witnessed the addition of another victim to the ranks of the Wrangell gasboat cranks, when Fred Willson got his recently engined launch into commission. He reports a considerable wrestling match with the blame thing at first, but now has it so that it will come to him most every time he whistles.

Lewis, Thor Hoistad and Lloyd Dalgity.

Recitation, Annie Loftus.

Duet, Annie Lewis and Elfrida Emery.

Piano Solo, Mrs. Collins.

Duet, Annie Lewis and Anna Choquette.

Piano Solo, Dolly Case.

Vocal Solo, Mrs. Emery.

BALLENGER'S SUGGESTIONS

Secretary Ballenger evidently is of the opinion that action of some kind is necessary with regards to Alaska coal lands as the following from his recommendations to Congress shows.

"All the coal lands in Alaska not located prior to November 12, 1906, are under the bond of withdrawals. Those located prior to said date are for the most part under departmental investigation on charges of fraud or irregularities, etc. These investigations have been taken up under a corps of trained officers with the view of securing the exact status of such locations and entries. In the meantime no patents have been issued and none will be issued except upon a full showing of compliance with law and departmental regulations. A class of entries, known as the Cunningham entries, made in 1907, have provoked wide discussion and popular interest, largely because of their alleged value and method of attempted acquisition.

In view of such conditions it is deemed of the highest importance that all these cases, involving entries, or 5,280 acres, of coal land be transferred from the jurisdiction of the General Land Office directly to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia for consideration and adjudication, with out the necessity of a ruling as to the validity or invalidity of these entries by the Commissioner of the General Land Office as is now required in such cases. This procedure may well be provided by special direction in the bill now pending in Congress for the authorization of appeals in land cases from the Interior Department to the court."

The Secretary directs attention to the recommendations contained in his report for 1909 for coal land legislation and quotes from an official statement made in 1907, wherein some of the difficulties which would be encountered in the operation of a leasing system are pointed out, and again calls attention to the importance of enacting legislation which would give the Department an effective method of disposition of coal lands, especially in Alaska. He points out that in Alaska it is possible that a leasing system could be adapted to the country with efficiency and with less complication than in the States. In the States the administrative policy is to secure by appraisalment and sale of the coal deposits what would accrue to the Government if the deposits were mined on a royalty basis, but this is not possible under existing laws in Alaska, where the price is fixed at a flat acreage rate.

JUST PUBLISHED

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received unsurpassed scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

400,000 words and phrases.
6000 illustrations.
2700 pages.

Entertain the Gentlemen

The Woman's club of Petersburg celebrated its first gentlemen's night with a banquet last Saturday night. The guests of honor included besides the husbands and sons of the members, Messrs. O. P. Brown, Phil T. Megaarden and Wm. Fels. Mrs. I. A. Gilman acted as toastmistress and the many toasts were happily responded to.

Mrs. G. B. Buhmann entertained pleasantly at her home in Petersburg Monday evening in honor of several of her friends who were departing for the states.
